Introducing Tercelvoice: A Yorkshire Gem of Cinematic Soul and Beat-Driven Sounds
Born from the heart of Yorkshire, initially formed by Andy Squires, Tercelvoice has transformed from a solitary endeavour into a mesmerising collective of sound, skilfully partnering with York's Young Thugs Records to craft their highly anticipated second album, 'This is Our Time.'

Having meticulously cultivated their artistry under the radar, Tercelvoice's journey has been a testament to unyielding dedication. The self titled debut received great support from BBC Introducing, gracing the airwaves with its enchanting melodies. Tercelvoice has performed live in session for the BBC and also taken part in multiple live events. One track 'Bad to the Bone' earned the honour of being showcased on the renowned Tom Robinson Show on BBC 6 Music, catapulting Tercelvoice into a realm of recognition.

Now, as dawn breaks on a new era, Tercelvoice emerges from the shadows, determined to share their distinctive sonic tapestry with the world. 'This is Our Time' launches on Spotify on the 20th of October, With the title track released as a single on the 29th of September. Limited edition Vinyl will be available from all independent record stores. The album will be launched live on the 24th October at York's much loved music venue, The Crescent.
